UNESCO Future Co-creation Platform JAPAN

The UNESCO Future Co-creation Platform was launched through a project commissioned by Japan's Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology (MEXT).
The Platform promotes collaboration, networking and mutual learning among diverse stakeholders—including schools, communities, NGOs, universities, businesses, local governments and youth—to advance UNESCO's values and thereby contribute to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

How the Platform Works

Working Group

The Platform is supported by a Working Group consisting of representatives from UNESCO-related organizations and experts from diverse fields.
The Working Group promotes dialogue and collaboration among stakeholders, advises on the operation and development of the Platform, and helps enhance the visibility and impact of UNESCO-related activities in Japan.

- Raising awareness of UNESCO and its activities while boosting participation.
- Promoting cross-sectoral initiatives that engage diverse stakeholders.
- Strategically disseminating information both domestically and internationally.
